ABOUT ME

I am a motivated Full-Stack Developer and undergraduate at the Rajarata University of Sri Lanka. I enjoy creating practical, user-friendly web and mobile applications that combine functionality and usability. With strong attention to detail and a solid understanding of software development principles, I approach challenges thoughtfully. I thrive in collaborative environments, where I can contribute ideas, learn from others and solve problems effectively. Always eager to grow and improve, I am committed to delivering high-quality solutions that meet both user and business needs.
